Chapter 4 of the Expanded Version

नमः शिवाय गुरवे नादबिन्दुकलात्मने ।

निरञ्जनपदं याति नित्यं यत्रपरायणः ॥ १ ॥

Homage to the guru, Śiva, who consists of nāda, bindu and kalā.
[The yogi] who is constantly devoted to him attains the pure state.

* The text of the black-printed verses is a reproduction of the main edited text, i.e. the text of the earliest recension. The text of the expanded version is to be reconstructed from the apparatus (cf. p. 81). The grey-scaled verses are usually only found in manuscript groups ε , ζ , η , π , and χ . Notes about the omission or inclusion of these verses are only provided when there is a deviation from this pattern.

❖ Commentary

The greyscale verses at the beginning of chapter four are found in all collated manuscripts except those of the α group. These verses appear to have been added at an early stage in the transmission of the Haṭhāpradīpikā in order to create a new opening for this chapter. The revised beginning opens with a maṅgala verse of the kind typically found at the start of a text. The second verse, which is from the Goraṁśaśataka, introduces the topic of samādhi. In this expanded version, two verses listing the synonyms of rājāyoga then follow. In the α group, however, these verses are placed at 4.32–33, and some manuscripts, such as π_2 , place them at both locations. Although the remaining additional verses relate to various themes within chapter four, when they are read together they constitute a loosely organised collection on samādhi, rājāyoga, the importance of the guru, the dissolution of the breath, Suṣūmnā, and related topics.

In contrast to this revised opening, the α group begins with a cohesive discussion on absorption (4.1–3) that transitions to the gaze (4.4) and a brief discussion of sāmbhavī and khecari

अथेदानीं प्रवक्ष्यामि समाधिक्रममुत्तमम् ।
मृत्युघ्नं तु सुखोपायं ब्रह्मानन्दकरं परम् ॥ २ ॥

So now I will teach the best way to samādhi. It destroys death, has an easy method and brings about the bliss of Brahman. (2)

2 also included in $\gamma_1\gamma_2\delta_1\delta_2$ 2a athedānīm cett.] athodānī π_ω , athekṣanīm γ_1 2b °m uttamam $\varepsilon_1\varepsilon_2\zeta_2\zeta_3\eta_2\pi_1\pi_2\pi_\omega\chi$] lakṣaṇam $\gamma_1\gamma_2\delta_1\delta_2$ 2c tu $\gamma_1\gamma_2\delta_2\varepsilon_1\varepsilon_2\pi_1\pi_2\pi_\omega$] ca $\zeta_2\zeta_3\eta_2\chi$, su δ_1 2d param cett.] sadā ε_2 mudrās (4.5–4.8). The main topic of the chapter, which is meditating on the internal sound (nādānusandhāna), begins at 4.12 in the α group (whereas in other groups it begins after fifty or so verses). The emphasis on nādānusandhāna in the fourth chapter of the α group is consistent with the statement in verse 1.56 that nādānusandhāna is the fourth component of Hāṭhayoga.

Its likely that the term nirañjanapada was understood here as samādhi because nirañjana is included in a list of synonyms of samādhi later in this chapter (4.32 = X4.3).

The triad nāda, bindu and kalā occurs in earlier works, in particular Śaiva Tantras, where it appears in contexts of enunciating mantras (mantroccāra, e.g. Kubjikāmatatantra 7.65, Jñānārṇavatatantra 2.4, Īśānaśivagurudevapaddhati 18–110, etc.) and sometimes qualifies deities (e.g. Parākhyantra 5.156ab) and gurus (e.g. Gurugītā 64). The context can change the meaning of these terms, so we have chosen not to translate them. For a discussion of their various meanings, see Tāntrikābhidhānaśāstra vol. 2: 68–73; vol. 3, 277–279.

❖ Commentary

The third quarter of this verse has been subject to much revision in the Haṭhapradīpikā and the source text, the Amanaska. Unlike the manuscripts of the Amanaska, those of the Haṭhapradīpikā transmit sthirā, sthitiḥ or sthite after muktiḥ or mukti. We have adopted muktiḥ sthirā, the reading of ε, an important group for the grey-scaled verses.

❖ Commentary

The vocative form of amaraugha is well attested and closely related to two other variants, amarogha and amaraughi. The term amaraugha appears in a list of synonyms for samādhi in Haṭhāpradīpikā 4.32. We have adopted this reading as it is not unprecedented for an author to pay homage to samādhi (e.g. Haṭhāpradīpikā X4.70) and to other yoga techniques (e.g. Yogatārāvalī 4a: nādānusandhāna namo 'stu tubhyaṃ). It is possible that this verse was inserted here together with the next one, which also contains the term amaraugha.

❖ Commentary

The second line of this verse is problematic in both the source text (the Amaraugha) and the manuscripts of the Haṭhapradīpikā. For the last pāda, we have adopted the closest reading to that of the source text but cannot make sense of it, so have cruxed it. In addition to the tentative translation we have made, one could understand amaraughavajrolī and āśājivite as dual forms: “...then amaraugha and vajrolī arise, and there is hope and life too”. The line was rewritten in η_2 and other manuscripts, as well as the ġyotsnā (4.14cd), to include the two variations of vajrolī, namely amarolī and sahajolī.

Disregarding the technical meaning of the terms, the verse plays with apparent contradictions (virodhābhāsa) in saying literally that, when mercury and the breath are unconscious, they cure disease; when dead, they restore life and, when bound, they enable one to fly up.

The manuscripts attest two versions of the second line. It appears that the reading of ε, ζ and π groups, which we have adopted, was changed to remove the first person pronoun. The modified reading is prevalent in the γ and δ manuscripts (manahprāṇalayānando nāpi kaś cit vibhidyate).

❖ Commentary

This and the next verse (X4.41–42) are from the South Indian recension of the Amanaska, a later rewriting of that work which incorporates these verses in an additional passage on Tārakayoga, which is presented in this recension as the preliminary yoga (pūrvayoga). It appears to have been added here to elaborate on the meditation of fixing the gaze that is taught in 4.4–7 = X4.36–39.

By leading the moon and sun to dissolution in a motionless state, the [yogi], his eyes half open, mind steady, and gaze placed at the tip of the nose, attains the supreme reality (vastu), the state that is the highest principle (tattva), whose form is light, which is devoid of anything external and is shining intensely. What more is to be said here? (43) gaze. In the Candrāvalokana (the source text) and the Anubhavanivedana, it follows X4.39, which may explain its position in the γ and δ groups. The attentive reader will notice that we have decided against manuscripts that agree with the source text. The reason is based on our stemmatic considerations. Cumulative evidence supports the origin of the additional verses at the beginning of the fourth chapter in the hyparchetype of the ε manuscripts. We suspect these verses contaminated the π group's copies very early. To complicate matters, the scribe was familiar with the source text and corrected the readings accordingly.

❖ Commentary

The manuscripts transmit readings for the last verse quarter that either contradict or repeat the statements in the first line. This problem likely occurred through some kind of dittographical error. We have therefore adopted the reading of Jyotsnā 4.42d (nirodhataḥ), which is the same as the source text.

This verse may not be referring to the cavity in which the tongue is placed but perhaps to a more esoteric sense based on the meaning of pañcasrotas as the five streams of tantric Śaiva teachings, which in this case generate knowledge. ❖ Commentary

The reading tale is suspect, as is nirālabāntare, the conjecture of Brahmānanda.

The vyomacakra ('the cakra of the void') is also mentioned in a verse added to some later recensions of the Haṭhapradīpikā (see 3.34*1), which states that vyomacakra is another name for khecarīmudrā. This verse derives from a passage in the Jñānasāra (2.1–5) that discusses khecarī, as well as contracting the throat (cf. the jālandhara lock), in relation to three cakras; vyomacakra, madhyacakra, and mūlacakra. For further discussion, see the commentary on 3.69.

In Jyotsnā 4.45, Brahmānanda states that the vyomacakra is associated with all the voids in the middle of the brow (bhrūmadhye sarvakhānām samanvayāt) and, in the Haṭhasaṅketacandrikā (f. 129v), Sundaradeva says that it is called the Brahmarandhra, which is between Idā and Piṅgalā (idāpiṅgalāntargatam brahmarandhrākhyam vyomacakraṃ tat khecarīmudrām śaktim kuryād ...).

❖ Commentary

The referent of mayā is unspecified, and no source text has been identified. We assume it refers to the speaker, who might be Śiva. The ε manuscripts have māyodbheditā for mayodbheditā, but it is hard to make sense of this. If correct, udbheditā would more likely mean “produced” or “made manifest”. Alternatively, the first line of this verse could be referring to khecarīmudrā, in which case its being produced by māyā would make more sense. In the second line, Brahmananda’s reading suṣumnāṃ is tempting. The line would then mean, “[The yogi] should fill Suṣumnā with divine breath through the rear opening”.

❖ Commentary

It is hard to make sense of sūryāṅge here ('on the side of the sun?'). The terms sūryāṅge and candrāṅge occur in the third chapter (3.15) in the sense of the right and left sides of the body, respectively. However, this meaning does not seem relevant here. The variant readings with pavane/pavano are not clear either, so we have cruxed the fourth verse quarter.

❖ Commentary

This verse may have been inspired by the Mokṣopāya (e.g. 1.2.2).

एवं नानाविधोपायाः सम्यक्स्वानुभवान्विताः ।
समाधिमार्गाः कथिताः पूर्वाचार्यैर्महात्मभिः ॥ ६९ ॥

Various methods like these, which are understood properly through personal experience, have been taught as paths to samādhi by mag-nanimous teachers of former times. (69)

अथ विश्रान्तिः ।

Now, Cessation [of the Mind]:

सुषुम्णायै कुण्डलिन्यै सुधायै चन्द्रमण्डले ।
मनोन्मन्यै नमस्तुभ्यं महाशक्तिचिदात्मने ॥ ७० ॥

Homage to Suṣuṃṇā, to Kuṇḍalinī, to the nectar in the orb of the moon, to the mind beyond mind state, to you whose nature is con-sciousness, the great Śakti. (70)

अशक्यतत्त्वबोधानां मूढानामपि संमतम् ।
प्रोक्तं गोरक्षनाथेन नादोपासनमुच्यते ॥ ७१ ॥

The cultivation of the inner sound taught by Gorakṣanātha [and] approved even for foolish people unable to understand the highest reality is [now] taught. (71)

Now, concentration on the internal sounds:

राजयोगपदप्राप्तौ सुखोपायोऽल्पचेतसाम् ।

सद्यःप्रत्ययसंधायी जायते नादजो लयः ॥ ८३ ॥

The dissolution which arises from the inner sound instantly gives proof of [its efficacy] [and] is an easy method for attaining the state of Rājayoga [even] for foolish people. (83)

❖ Commentary

The term nirañjana can refer to the highest deity or the highest state of mind (see HP 4.32/X4.3 where it is said to be a synonym of samādhi). Here it is likely to mean the deity because of devo

Vivekamārtaṇḍa 168*avedhyaḥ*] abhedyaḥ VM

❖ Commentary

The collated manuscripts have avadhyaḥ in both the first and second verse quarters. Although avadhyaḥ can make sense in both quarters, the repetition appears to be a dittographical error that changed avedyaḥ, which is close to the reading of the source text, into avadhyaḥ. We have therefore emended accordingly.

चित्तं न सुप्तं नो जाग्रत् स्मृतिमन्न न चान्यथा ।
नास्तमेति न चोदेति यस्यासौ मुक्त एव सः ॥ १३१ ॥

He is indeed truly liberated whose mind is neither asleep nor awake, has no memory nor is otherwise, and neither stops nor starts. (131)

स्वस्थो जाग्रदवस्थायां सुप्तवद्योऽवतिष्ठते ।
निःश्वासोच्छ्वासहीनश्च निश्चितं मुक्त एव सः ॥ १३२ ॥

[The yogi] who remains at ease, as though asleep, in the waking state, without breathing in and out, is definitely liberated. (132)

❖ Commentary

The first line of this verse is significantly different from the version in the source text, the Gorakṣaśataka. The second quarter is corrupt in many of the Haṭhapradīpikā manuscripts but smṛti and nānyathā are well attested.
